To Whom It May Concern:

Recently, two JMG Project Reach programs in South Portland had the opportunity to team up with Scott Jordan of (207) Entertainment to work on an event that took place at our high school featuring the Harlem Rockets.

This event afforded my students with the opportunity to work on marketing and communication skills, as well as customer service, and public relations. All very important skills to understand and develop as young people begin to enter the workforce!

The event was also great for our community, as our school district had experienced the loss of two longtime teachers this Fall and it had really taken a toll. We were able to raise money from the event to give to the scholarship fund their names as well as bring people together for a fun-filled event. We thank Scott and his company for allowing us the chance to participate!

Sincerely,
